

Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing to express my interest in interviewing for the position of Web Developer. During my 5 years of experience as a full-stack Web Developer, I have developed both the functional and aesthetic components of client websites. I believe I can make an immediate impact on your organization with my unique blend of skills and passion.

A company's online presence is more important than ever before and a competent web developer can help make a customer's first impression of your company's website even better. I think I have the skills necessary to make your website operate at the highest level and drive even more business to Fashion Sales and Service as your web developer.

I have experience working as a web developer for retail and service-oriented companies. With my help, my last employer nearly doubled their third quarter sales by implementing a better online shopping experience for their customers.

I am trained in the latest coding and interface styles to make websites more modern and user friendly, especially across mobile devices. One of my previous positions was as web developer for a locally owned business that had never been online before. They now have a great looking website that functions well on smart phones and tablets.

I believe I could bring this same level of expertise to Fashion Sales and Service to make your website even more accessible to your customers. I am the perfect candidate for your web developer position, and I look forward to meeting with you to further discuss my qualifications.

Sincerely,

Surendra Budhathoki
